The story began in a village named "Sonipat". This village is famous for making the best woolen sweaters of India. The children of this village have been asked to send pictures or drawings to a competition in New York. The winners will get a prize of a one-year scholarship in the United States. A girl named Andaaz sends in her report card and draws an airplane on it. She writes, "If I win this competition, I want to go to America and study there." In the drawing she also mentions her friend, Osama Khan. The lady of the house takes her report card to the Union Minister, who is impressed with what she has done. The entire village is amazed at what Andaaz has achieved. They also get a train from the railway station because it will be a lot cheaper than a bus or car. Whilst they are on their way to New York City, Osama starts flirting with Andaaz because he thinks she is from New York City and thinks that she will give him a job in America. She falls in love with him and ignores her father, who is struggling to pay off his debt to a loan shark named "Khurram". After they reach New York, Andaaz and Osama start living in the same apartment. A couple of years later, Osama's parents come to see him. Osama's mother is very upset about how he treats his wife and also because his father was nowhere to be found. He goes with them to find them a house and they choose a house which is next door to Andaaz and Osama's. On their way home, they go past another boy named Vijay who does not like Andaaz because she always gets the airplane task done first whereas he is last all the time. This upsets him so much that he starts calling her names such as "flying saucer".
